

It is my belief that "Stolen Honor" has every right to exist and to be viewed. However, it seems wrong that it be forced onto local stations in the week heading up to the coming election. This action, if it comes to be, by Sinclair Broadcasting undermines, if not violates, the hope that our media is fair, unbiased and balanced. I can only imagine the uproar if PBS stations across the country chose to air Fahrenheit 9/11 the night before the election. And it should be noted, I would not support that as well.

Sincerely
Matthew Ryan
